

POST-DOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP IN MENTAL HEALTH AND PSYCHIATRIC NURSING

JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF NURSING

The Johns Hopkins University School of Nursing is seeking a highly qualified candidate for a two-year post-doctoral fellowship on advancing the science to improve the mental health of young children and their families.

The Blaustein Fellowship was created through the generosity of the Morton K. and Jane Blaustein Foundation and is led by Dr. Deborah Gross, the Leonard and Helen R. Stulman Endowed Chair in Mental Health and Psychiatric Nursing. It provides a richly mentored experience to scholars committed to multidisciplinary and collaborative research advancing the science surrounding the mental health of young children and their families.

Eligibility: Applications are welcomed from nurses with research doctorates or those nearing completion of a doctoral degree with a demonstrated commitment to scholarship in child or family mental health. Preference given to applicants with histories of prior research funding and first-authored data-based publications in refereed journals. Fellowships are open to eligible U.S. citizens and international applicants. Applicants from groups underrepresented in the nursing profession are encouraged to apply.

Annual stipend/benefits: Stipends range from $48,432 to $59,736, depending on experience. Other benefits include pilot funds, health/dental insurance, access to JHU graduate courses, and membership to the Johns Hopkins Post-Doctoral Association.

Applications will be accepted starting March 1, 2019. Start date is negotiable. See reverse for Blaustein Fellowship Application Procedures
