Faculty Development Workshop:
TEST ITEM WRITING
TO FOSTER
CLINICAL JUDGMENT

Two Virtual Sessions.
Identical Content.

FREE WORKSHOP

September 24
9 a.m. - noon

September 30
1 - 4 p.m.

Increase your competence in developing or revising test items based upon the National Council of State Boards of Nursing (NCSBN) Clinical Judgment Measurement Model. Learn simple steps to improve the extent to which an item evaluates the clinical judgment of the test-taker and strategies to maintain security of online exams. You will have an opportunity to apply the principles discussed by reviewing your own test items. Participants can earn 2.5 contact hours for this session.

TOPICS INCLUDE:
- Properties of an effective test question
- Evaluation of individual tests
- Examples of Next Generation NCLEX test items
- Adapting NCSBN Clinical Judgment Measurement Model to current testing protocols
- Making your test items better through statistics

This online workshop is presented by Susan Sportsman, PhD, RN, ANEF, FAAN, with Collaborative Momentum Consulting. Dr. Sportsman consults nationwide to provide nursing educators with expert guidance and consultation in the areas of student, faculty, and program performance and leadership development. She has a special interest in NCLEX success strategies.
