TO THE
SUMMARY PLAN DESCRIPTION

July 1, 2019

The Student Health Program Summary Plan Description (July 1, 2018) (“SPD”) describes the benefits provided by the Student Health Program. Johns Hopkins University has amended the Student Health Program as explained below. Please keep this 2019 Summary together with your 2018 SPD so that you will have a complete explanation of your benefits.

The Student Health Program currently allows students to enroll their same-sex domestic partners (and the partner's eligible dependent children) for coverage. Effective July 1, 2019, all domestic partners, same or opposite sex (and their eligible dependent children) can be enrolled for coverage.

Accordingly, effective July 1, 2019, any reference in the SPD to "same-sex domestic partner" will be read as a reference to "domestic partner".

As before, a domestic partner can only be enrolled for coverage if they meet the domestic partnership requirements as defined by Johns Hopkins University and are listed on the affidavit of domestic partnership.

If you have any questions about the domestic partner requirements, please contact the benefits representative for your School at the number shown on the last page of your SPD.
