CPR Certification

All Johns Hopkins University School of Nursing students are required to have current CPR certification. The certification must cover adult, pediatric and infant CPR and airway obstruction as well as the use of automatic external defibrillator (AED).

You are required to obtain CPR certification through one of the following options:

American Heart Association
Course title: Basic Life Support (BLS) for Healthcare Providers (CPR & AED)
Website: http://www.americanheart.org
This certification is good for two years.
Please note: AHA offers a CPR course entitled "Heart Saver." This is NOT an acceptable course.

OR

American Red Cross
Course title: CPR/AED for the Professional Rescuer and the Healthcare Provider
Website: http://www.redcross.org
This certification is good for two years.

It is the responsibility of the student to obtain the correct certification. Evidence of certification must be submitted prior to orientation. Students will not be permitted to attend clinical sessions without the proper documentation.

Please send a copy of your CPR certification to one of the following:
