Abstract

Title- Psychosocial Comorbidity among Pregnant Women Living with HIV

Abstract- No, more than 75 words (in paragraph form)

At our institution we were missing a number of pregnant women LWHIV with depression, anxiety and substance use due to inconsistent screening. The purpose of this study was to implement and provide staff training on SBIRT. Additionally, to determine if introduction of an SBIRT protocol would result in an increase in screening for all three risk factors. Initial findings have shown that 100% were screened and when appropriate, referred for further evaluation and treatment.
