

THE ELMER A. HENDERSON: A JOHNS HOPKINS PARTNERSHIP SCHOOL AND THE HARRY AND JEANETTE WEINBERG EARLY CHILDHOOD CENTER SCHOOL WELLNESS PROGRAM

Johns Hopkins University School of Nursing (JHSON)
Center for Community Innovation and Scholarship (COMPASS)
Office of Associate Dean for Community Programs

BACKGROUND

In 2012, JHU School of Nursing was selected to provide leadership in implementing a coordinated school health program at The Elmer A. Henderson: A Johns Hopkins Partnership School and the Harry and Jeanette Weinberg Early Childhood Center collectively known as Henderson-Hopkins when the school community moved to its new building and campus during 2013. The Whole School, Whole Community, Whole Child (WSCC) combines elements of the traditional coordinated school health program (a CDC initiative) and the Whole Child Approach (an education initiative) to present a unified and collaborative approach to learning and health. This model focuses on the whole school, drawing resources and influences from the whole community and addresses the needs of the whole child. The primary way that the HH wellness program achieves this goal is through wellness programming for students, staff and families.

SERVICE LEARNING

The HH School Wellness Program provides opportunities for Johns Hopkins Graduate students in nursing, public health and medicine to engage in service learning activities in the East Baltimore community.
