

Health Policy Outlook Series

NOVEMBER 7, 2022

12 PM - 1 PM

JOHNS HOPKINS SCHOOL OF NURSING
525 N. WOLFE STREET
CARPENTER ROOM A
BALTIMORE, MD 21205

AND VIRTUAL

TROUBLEMAKERS FOR GOOD: HOW NURSING IS CHALLENGING AND IMPROVING CONVENTIONAL HEALTH NORMS

The panel will feature several “health disrupters” sharing their experience seeking change within their institutions, communities, and in government to improve the health and lives of individuals and communities around the world.

MODERATOR: SARAH SZANTON

PHD '07, MSN, BSN '93, RN, FAAN
Dean, Johns Hopkins School of Nursing

ALEXIS BAKOS

PHD '00, MPH, RN
Program Director for Supportive
Care and Symptom Management,
Community Oncology and Prevention Trials Research Group
National Institutes of Health

NATALIA BAROLIN

BSN '15, RN
Senior Advisor, Health Equity
Prevention & Population Health Group
The Center for Medicare & Medicaid
Innovation

SABINA DE GEEST

PHD, RN, FAAN, FRCN, FEANS
Professor and Chair of the Department of Public Health of the Faculty of Medicine,
University of Basel, Switzerland

FERNANDO MENA-CARRASCO

MSW '18, BSN '15, RN
Chief of the Center for HIV/STI
Integration and Capacity,
Maryland Department of Health

REGISTRATION:

SON-EVENTS@JHU.EDU

Zoom link provided upon registration