Faculty Appointment and Promotion Criteria Introduction

The appointment and promotion criteria developed by faculty and approved by the Academic Council provide guidance for achieving each academic rank within the Johns Hopkins School of Nursing (JHSON). All faculty are expected to actively contribute to each of the four areas: scholarship, professional practice, teaching, and service, with distinction shown in selected areas. Boyer* has noted that in order for America's universities to remain vital and to meet "today's urgent academic and social mandates", the meaning of scholarship must be redefined and expanded. We believe that Boyer's four separate, but overlapping types of scholarship fit well with the mission of the Johns Hopkins University School of Nursing (JHSON) and thus we are operationally defining "scholarship" as used in these criteria to reflect the following four types of scholarship:

Scholarship of Discovery (encompasses empirical research, the discovery of knowledge);

Scholarship of Integration (interpreting research into a larger, more comprehensive understanding, answering "what do the findings mean");

Scholarship of Application (how knowledge can be responsibly applied to consequential problems);

Scholarship of Teaching (transmitting, transforming and extending knowledge).

Faculty members may demonstrate their scholarship in a variety of important ways. Faculty at JHSON are expected and supported to provide leadership in nursing and healthcare within scholarship, professional practice, teaching, and service arenas. The ability to change thinking within a focused area of expertise based upon one's scholarship and/or innovation in practice are the hallmarks of effective leadership.

These guidelines present specific provisions for the criteria of each rank for the Practice/Education and Research/Education tracks. At each successive rank, an expanding scope of professional influence is expected. This expectation has several dimensions: from instructors evaluated for their contributions and influence at the local level to full professors at the national and international level. In addition, the criteria embrace different professional and scholarly audiences, the context of healthcare, and other major venues of faculty activity. When considering appointment or promotion, the faculty member should follow the portfolio guidelines and prepare materials that emphasize and illustrate their impact and contributions, not mere quantity of activity. Faculty members should also demonstrate continuing contributions commensurate with rank at each evaluation point.

This document includes possible sources of evidence as examples of ways faculty might demonstrate that a particular criterion. These examples are not intended to be prescriptive or exhaustive of all possibilities as a faculty member may have other relevant activities or accomplishments that will show that they have met a particular criterion. Exceptions to this are noted in both tracks where key activities are required to achieve a specific criterion. At each level, faculty may use possible sources of evidence listed for the rank for which they are being evaluated as well as from levels above or below this rank. Rank begins at the Assistant Professor level for both the Research/Education and Practice/Education tracks.
