Thank you for your interest in the R3 Materials. Please read our User Agreement carefully as we include information which applies universally to the use of all materials listed in the definition.

You understand and agree that the Provider gives access to R3 Materials subject to this User Agreement. Provider reserves the right to update the User Agreement at any time. Changes to the User Agreement will apply to new users, new instruments, and to new projects created by existing users after these changes are posted.

Use of the R3 Materials, related materials, and services requires acceptance of all terms and conditions stated herein. You agree to abide by the R3 User Agreement as a condition of using the R3 materials. No modifications or additions to these User Agreement are binding upon Provider unless previously agreed to in writing by an authorized representative of Provider.

Single Use, Reproducibility, and Distribution

- The R3 Materials are copyrighted. The English version of the R3 Materials is publicly available for use without licensing or royalty fees for individual research or individual educational or clinical use. Such use of the R3 Materials is “single use,” meaning solely for User’s research, clinical, educational, or other application per this request. Subsequent projects, research, clinical use, etc. requires a new Permission Request and new User Agreement.
- User shall not reproduce the R3 Materials except as needed to conduct the authorized single use research, clinical, educational, or other activity. User shall not distribute, publish, sell, license, or provide the R3 Materials by any means whatsoever, to third parties not involved with the authorized single use as stated above, without the prior written agreement of the Provider. Users must request permission to reprint the R3 Materials for reasons not included in the single use case.
- Commercial Users must seek permission to use, reproduce, or distribute the R3 Materials regardless of purpose, at all times.

- User agrees not to adapt, alter, amend, abridge, modify, condense, make derivative works, or translate the R3 Materials without prior written permission from the Provider. In cases where permission is granted, User will be expected to evaluate the impact of approved modifications. User will also be expected to provide the verified translation of the R3 Materials to the Provider for public use.
- User agrees and undertakes not to sell or incorporate the R3 Materials into materials that could be sold without prior written consent from the Provider.
- To inquire about permissions, email R3inquiries@jhu.edu.

Indemnification

- User agrees and undertakes to indemnify and hold Provider harmless against any and all claims, loss or damage, including fees, penalties or fines and third-party claims, and attorneys' fees arising from User's use of the R3 Materials. Further, User shall be obliged to indemnify, defend and/or hold harmless. Provider and its agents, trustees, officers, medical affiliates, employees, and their respective successors, heirs, and assignees against any liability, damage, loss, or expense incurred in connection with User's use of the R3 Materials.
- Consent to User's use of the R3 Materials is given 'AS IS', without any accompanying services or improvements. Provider does not accept any liability resulting from User's use of the R3 Materials. R3 Materials are supplied to User with no warranties or representations of any kind as to the accuracy, currency, or the merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose.
- Neither Provider nor any party involved in creating, producing, or delivering any R3 Materials shall be liable for any damages, including without limitation, direct, incidental, consequential, indirect, or punitive damages arising out of access to, use of, alterations of, or inability to use the R3 Materials, or any errors or omissions in the content thereof.

Copyright References

- User will include Provider's- "© Cynda Rushton, Johns Hopkins University, 2022, Use with permission only"- on all printed copies of any R3 Materials in the same form as it appears on the document that User is downloading from this website or is receiving via email from the Provider.
- User agrees and undertakes not to remove the copyright mark which appears on any printed R3 Materials. Use of the R3 Materials does not and will not create any right, title, or interest thereof for User, other than the right to use the R3 Materials under this User Agreement.

Publications and Presentations

- Any publication or presentation created from research, clinical, educational, or other applicable use of the R3 Materials should include a statement that indicates which instruments were used and provide an appropriate citation.
- For precise copyright citation, "© Cynda Rushton, Johns Hopkins University, 2022, Use with Permission only."

Furthering Research

- Use of the R3 Materials in clinical research is encouraged, with the understanding that data collected from that use will contribute to knowledge about the validity of R3 tools. USERS OF THE R3 Materials ARE STRONGLY ENCOURAGED TO SUBMIT A BRIEF REPORT INCLUDING SAMPLE DEMOGRAPHIC INFORMATION, CLINICAL DATA SUFFICIENT TO characterize THE SAMPLE, AND SCORE DISTRIBUTIONS (E.G., BASELINE MEAN AND STANDARD DEVIATIONS OR CHANGE SCORES). This brief report should be submitted to R3inquiries@jhu.edu for internal review. None of this submitted information will be published without the written consent and participation of the submitter. In addition to the brief report, clinical researchers are encouraged to submit a final version of any translated material, presentation, or publication. Data ownership would remain with the submitter. Clinical researchers are strongly encouraged to collaborate with R3 Material researchers when applying these items and banks to their research.
