

Preceptor Example Nomination

Name:	Joe Smith
Credentials	DNP, APRN-CNS, CCRN
Title/ Department:	CNS
Hospital	Bayview Medical Center
Years in nursing:	28
What makes this nominee worthy of recognition?	Dr. Joe Smith serves as a Dynamic Change agent in the Medicine units of JHBMC. It is my great pleasure and honor to nominate Dr. Smith for her extraordinary role in professional leadership, education, mentoring, research, and administration. Dr Smith is powerful catalyst who uses her knowledge and skills in administration to improve patient care. She posses the role of vibrant nurse educator who lead and manages the Med-surg orientation program for the newly hired staff. She is great role model and started the mentoring program for the Med-Surg units. Dr. Smith is the nurse attending for ALIKI team and she is a highly influential educator medical students and interns during medical rounds. She is energetic teacher and a preceptor for MSN, CNS, and DNP students and also for international students. Dr. Smith serving the position of Nurse Attending; an innovation in healthcare under Johns Hopkins University. In this position, she educates and collaborates with medical interns, residents, medical-nursing student, mentor and promote patient safety. She is the nurse attending for ALIKI team and she is a highly influential educator medical students and interns during medical rounds. She is energetic teacher and a preceptor for MSN,CNS, and DNP students and also for international students.
Additional information:	Dr. Smith truly made a difference in Indian nurses' community by founding a nonprofit Indian American Nurses Association of Maryland (IANAM) organization in Maryland. She was unanimously selected as President of the organization. It was with her commitment and dedication that the organization grows faster. She inspired nurses to take part in attending conferences, and presentations. She is a role model and provides the opportunity for young nurses. Her aim of starting this organization was "to encourage others, to take turns in leading, and to support during hardship." Dr. Smith strives to utilize every opportunity to raise the awareness of this organization. Dr. Smith has been deeply committed to educating Basic Life Support for not only to IANAM, Indian community members, but also to the local community members. She volunteers and inspires others by donating blood and organizing many voluntary works in the community. She severed as Sectary and Vice President for international cultural associations She is very friendly, makes friends with any new person. Her confidence and positive thoughts spread to the room where ever she goes. She gives respect to all, arbitrary to language, religion, gender or occupation. I think her timely communication and her commitment on follow-up are the secrets of her success. Dr. Smith has wide network of communication with hospitals, schools and her community.